1.0 PURPOSE AND GOALS

The intention of this Policy and its procedures is to prevent Discrimination and Harassment from taking place at the Research Institute at St. Joe's (RSJ-H) and when necessary, to act upon complaints of this type of behaviour promptly, fairly, judiciously and with due regard to confidentiality for everyone involved.

RSJ-H also has a Prevention of Violence in the Workplace Policy (075-RSJ-H) that addresses concerns related to Workplace violence. Any individual may approach the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario, should he/she desire, and file a complaint within the time limits of the Legislation.

This Policy defines "Harassment", "Sexual Harassment" and "Discrimination" and identifies the rights and responsibilities of all employees, professional staff, contractors, volunteers, students, research visitors and learners who are engaged in RSJ-H business or working on St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton(SJHH) premises, including affiliated sites.

2.0 DEFINITIONS

Balance of Probabilities: Is defined as a standard of proof satisfying a judge or jury that the facts at issue probably occurred as alleged. It is sometimes referred to as a preponderance of the evidence or a 51 percent likelihood of occurrence.

Bullying: Is defined as targeted, intentional and repeated intimidation, over time, of a physical, verbal and psychological nature of a less powerful person by a more powerful person or group of persons. It is repetitive and encompasses an intrinsic power imbalance between the bully and the person being bullied who generally is incapable of self-defense. It can be physical (i.e. punching), verbal (i.e. name-calling) and/or social (i.e. spreading rumors).

Complainant: Any person who makes a complaint.

Discrimination: Means any form of unequal treatment based on a Human Rights Code (Code) ground, whether imposing extra burdens or denying benefits. It may be intentional or unintentional. It may involve direct actions that are discriminatory on their face, or it may involve rules, practices or procedures that appear neutral, but disadvantage certain groups of people. Discrimination may take obvious forms, or it may happen in very subtle ways. Even if there are many factors affecting a decision or action, if discrimination is one factor that is a violation of this Policy.

Frivolous: Characterized by a lack of seriousness or sense; of little or no weight, worth or importance, not worthy of serious notice.

Harassee: The person who is receiving the unwanted attention.

Harasser: The person who is engaging in conduct or action that is unwelcome.

Harassment: Means a course of vexatious comments, conduct/actions that are known, or ought reasonably to be known, to be unwelcome. It can involve words or actions that are known or should be known to be offensive, embarrassing, humiliating, demeaning or unwelcome, based on a ground of discrimination identified by this Policy. Harassment can occur based on any of the grounds of discrimination.

Examples of harassment include:

- Epithets, remarks, jokes or innuendos related to a person's race, gender identity, gender expression, sex, disability, sexual orientation, creed, age, or any other Code ground;
- Posting or circulating offensive pictures, graffiti or materials, whether in print form or via e-mail or other electronic means;
- Singling out a person for humiliating or demeaning "teasing" or jokes because they are a member of a Code - protected group; and
- Comments ridiculing a person because of characteristics that are related to a ground of discrimination. For example, this could include comments about a person's dress, speech or other practices that may be related to their sex, race, gender identity or creed.

If a person does not explicitly object to harassing behaviour, or appears to be going along with it, this does not mean that the behaviour is acceptable. The behaviour could still be considered harassment under the Human Rights Code or the Occupational Health and Safety Act.

A reasonable action taken by an employer or Supervisor relating to the management and direction of workers or the workplace is not workplace harassment. Actions such as performance management, training, directing work assignments and discipline do not constitute personal harassment.

Poisoned environment: A poisoned environment is created by comments or conduct (including comments or conduct that are condoned or allowed to continue when brought to the attention of management) that create a discriminatory work environment. The comments or conduct need not be directed at a specific person, and may be from any person, regardless of position or status. A single comment or action, if sufficiently serious, may create a poisoned environment.

Professional Staff: This includes basic scientists, physicians, residents, dentists and midwives.

Reporter: A person making a complaint who is a third party observer of harassment or discrimination.

Respondent: The individual who is named as the harasser.

Sexual harassment in the workplace is defined as:

- (a) Engaging in a course of vexatious comments or conduct against a worker in a workplace because of sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, where the course of comment or conduct is known or ought to be known to be unwelcome and/or
- (b) Making a sexual solicitation or advance where the person making the solicitation or advance is in a position to confer, grant or deny a benefit or advancement to the worker and the person knows or ought reasonably to know that the solicitation or advance is unwelcome.

Sexual harassment occurs when submission to such conduct is either an explicit or implicit term or condition of employment, when rejection of the conduct is used as a basis for making employment decisions or where the conduct has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

Examples of sexual harassment in the workplace include:

- Unwelcome sexual advances both verbal or physical;
- Requests or demands for dates or sexual favours;
- Gender-related comments about a person's physical characteristics or mannerisms;
- Paternalism based on gender which a person feels undermines his or her self-respect or position of responsibility;
- Unwelcome physical contact;
- Suggestive or offensive remarks or innuendoes about members of a specific gender;
- Propositions of physical intimacy;
- Gender-related verbal abuse, threats or taunting;
- Leering or inappropriate staring;
- Bragging about sexual prowess or questions or discussions about sexual activities;
- Offensive jokes or comments of a sexual nature about an employee or client;
- Rough and vulgar humour or language related to gender;
- Display of sexually offensive pictures, graffiti or other materials including through electronic means;
- Verbal abuse or kidding that is sex-oriented; and/or
- Any other type of sexual oriented conduct.

Staff: This includes those involved in clinical and basic science research employed by McMaster, St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton or Research Institute, including but not limited to coordinators, assistants, technicians etc.

Vexatious: Conduct that is inappropriate, unnecessary and that a reasonable person would consider to be offensive, upsetting, distressing, demeaning or would make a person uncomfortable.

Workplace: Any building or part of a building in which one or more employees work. A workplace also includes any work-related function or circumstances.

3.0 POLICY

RSJ-H is committed to providing a work environment in which all workers are treated with respect and dignity. In a diverse and equitable workplace, all employees will have the opportunity to contribute to RSJ-H.

It is the expectation therefore that there will be mutual respect between employees, professional staff, contractors, volunteers, students, research visitors and learners and that all persons shall treat each other with courtesy and professionalism.

RSJ-H does not tolerate workplace harassment, bullying or discrimination based on the following prohibited grounds or any combination of these grounds, under the Ontario Human Rights Code or the Occupational Health and Safety Act.

- Age;
- Ancestry;
- Citizenship;
- Colour;
- Creed (religion);
- Disability (including mental, physical, developmental or learning disabilities);
- Ethnic origin;
- Family status (such as being in a parent-child relationship);
- Gender expression;
- Gender identity;
- Marital status (including married, single, widowed, divorced, separated or living in a conjugal relationship outside of marriage, whether in a same-sex or opposite-sex relationship);
- Place of origin;
- Race;
- Sex/Pregnancy;
- Sexual orientation;
- Record of offences (criminal conviction for a provincial offence, or for an offence for which a pardon has been received);
- Association or relationship with a person identified by one of the above grounds; and/or
- Perception that one of the above grounds applies.

In addition, the Ontario Human Rights Code and the Occupational Health & Safety Act specifically prohibit sexual harassment in the workplace.

The right to freedom from discrimination and harassment extends to all employees (including full-time, part-time, temporary, probationary, casual and contract staff) as well as professional staff, contractors, volunteers, students, research visitors and learners who are engaged in RSJ-H business or working on SJHH premises or affiliated sites from all sources including patients, clients and members of the public. It is also unacceptable for members of RSJ-H to engage in harassment or discrimination when dealing with patients, clients, or with others they have professional dealings with, such as suppliers or service providers.

This Policy applies at every level of the organization and to every aspect of the workplace environment and employment relationship, including recruitment, selection, promotion, transfers, training, salaries, benefits and termination. This Policy also applies to events that occur outside of the physical workplace such as during business trips or company parties.

Individuals who believe they are being harassed or discriminated against are encouraged to report this to their supervisor or Human Resources, or the Executive Director of RSJ-H. Support may be sought from Joint Health and Safety Committee members, Occupational Health & Safety or from RSJ-H's EAP provider.

If a complaint of harassment or discrimination is received, it must be investigated by RSJ-H or where deemed appropriate by an external party in a fair and timely manner.

Persons who violate the Harassment and Discrimination Prevention Policy may face a range of consequences, including an apology, education, counselling, verbal or written reprimand, suspension, transfer or termination of employment, depending on the nature and severity of the behaviour. Any disciplinary action will be determined in consultation with Human Resources.

It is the responsibility of management to communicate to all employees that harassment and discrimination under the Human Rights Code and the Occupational Health and Safety Act are prohibited by RSJ-H Policy and the law. Research Administration is responsible for implementing this Policy and for ensuring that all employees, professional staff, contractors, volunteers, research visitors and learners are informed of this Policy.

Employees must be aware of the sensitivity and confidentiality of this type of complaint. Information about a complaint or incident will not be disclosed except to the extent necessary to protect workers, to investigate the complaint or incident, to take corrective action, or as otherwise required by law. All persons dealing with such complaints must be cognizant of the seriousness of these charges and sensitive to the dignity and self-respect of all persons involved.

No one making a complaint or participating in a workplace harassment investigation, in good faith, shall be penalized for such action.

4.0 PROCEDURE

4.1 Roles and Responsibilities

Employee: Any employee who has a complaint alleging violation of the Harassment and Discrimination Prevention Policy is encouraged to attempt the following, where possible, before a formal complaint is filed:

- 1) Make your disapproval known to the person who is causing the offence, and
- 2) Ask that all offensive behaviour stop, and/or
- 3) Discuss concerns with your immediate Supervisor or another member of management; and/or
- 4) Contact an Employee/Labour Relations representative in Human Resources for advice/consultation even if there is no intent to file a complaint.

If the harassment continues or the Complainant is uncomfortable speaking to the person who is causing the offence; or to his/her own Supervisor or another member of management, the Complainant may bring the matter to the attention of the Employee/Labour Relations representative in Human Resources.

To file a formal written complaint, the employee must complete the Workplace Harassment and Discrimination Complaint Form (Appendix A), and provide this to their supervisor or Employee/Labour Relations representative in Human Resources.

Where possible, employees who feel that they have been subjected to harassment or discrimination should maintain a written record of the nature of the alleged harassment, date(s), time(s), location, behaviour, impact and list of witness(es).

Employee/Labour Relations Representative: Works in Human Resources and acts as an impartial counsellor and advisor to any RSJ-H employees (including management). The Employee/Labour Relations Representative maintains a fair and unbiased attitude to all complaints and to all those involved in complaints at all times. The Employee/Labour Relations Representative is responsible for providing education on harassment and discrimination, initiating efforts to resolve complaints and investigating complaints.

Supervisor: Who receives a complaint, whether in writing or not, must immediately contact their Employee/Labour Relations Representative, preserving anonymity (as far as possible) for the Complainant if he/she so requests. Management may be counselled to take any of the following steps:

- 1) Take immediate action in the event of a real or potential threat to personal safety; and/or
- 2) Provide a copy of the Policy and Procedures to the Complainant to ensure awareness of the options under the Policy, including protection from reprisal; and or
- 3) Provide contact information (name, telephone number, office location) of the Employee/Labour Relations Representative to the Complainant.

4.2 Process

- 1) If comfortable doing so, the harassee will immediately make his/her discomfort and disapproval known to the harasser.
- 2) If the behaviour continues, the harassee shall seek the assistance of his/her immediate supervisor. Should the harasser be the harassee's supervisor see point 5.2.7.
- 3) To make a formal written complaint, the harassee must complete the Workplace Harassment and Discrimination Complaint Form (Appendix A), and submit it to their supervisor.
- 4) The supervisor will forward the complaint to the Executive Director.
- 5) The Executive Director reviews the complaint and forwards to Human Resources, VP Research SJHH, and the most appropriate person from McMaster, Hamilton Health Sciences or SJHH should they be the employer of either the harassee or the harasser.
- 6) A representative from the harassee's and the harasser's employer will be informed of the complaint and involved in the resolution as deemed appropriate.
- 7) Should the harasser be the harassee's immediate supervisor, and the harassee feels uncomfortable approaching the situation with their supervisor, they should make their concerns known either to the Executive Director or their Labour Relations representative in Human Resources.

4.3 Investigations

Formal Complaint

An individual who is making a formal complaint must complete the attached Workplace Harassment and Discrimination Complaint Form - Appendix A. This Form is to be provided to the individual's supervisor or their Employee/ Labour Relations Representative in Human Resources including any supporting materials. In the case of professional staff, the Form should be given to the Head of Service, Chief of Service, or directly to the Chief of Staff Office.

Investigator

The person selected to do the investigation should be independent and objective. Wherever possible, the investigator should not be in a position of direct authority over any of the people involved in a complaint, but should report to someone with the authority to make decisions and have them enforced.

In most cases an Employee/Labour Relations representative will act as the principal investigator. However, in some cases, an investigation may be conducted by an external investigator. An investigation should not be carried out by anyone who is seen as taking sides with either party. Also, the principal investigator should not be someone in a position to have any power or influence over the career progress of either of the parties.

Persons conducting investigations must be knowledgeable about:

- 1) Human rights issues and principles in general;
- 2) The requirements of the Human Rights Code and Occupational Health and Safety Act;
- 3) RSJ-H's Harassment and Discrimination Prevention Policy and complaints procedure; and
- 4) Methods for conducting investigations.

Similar considerations apply to any person whose role is to mediate or conciliate a complaint.

Assessment of Complaint

Once a formal complaint has been received, the Employee/Labour Relations representative will assess the complaint to determine appropriate next steps.

Complaint Investigation Process

A Complainant cannot be compelled to proceed with a complaint. However, RSJ-H may be obligated to proceed with the investigation if the allegation(s) constitute a serious violation of the Harassment and Discrimination Prevention Policy or the Prevention of Violence in the Workplace Policy.

The Investigator will notify the Director, Human Resources once a written complaint has been received. Complaints are investigated by interviewing the Complainant(s), the Respondent(s), any witnesses and reviewing any available documentation or evidence. An investigation report should normally be completed within sixty (60) days after the written complaint has been filed.

If there are delays beyond this timeline, the Complainant will be advised of the delays and any reasons why. It is incumbent on all parties to a complaint to arrange schedules or support persons so as not to delay the process.

In some circumstances, while the investigation is occurring, the Complainant or the Respondent will be placed on a paid leave of absence, moved to a different location within the organization, or provided with alternative reporting relationships. The decision will be made on a case-by-case basis, and will reflect the principle that the Complainant will not be penalized for making the complaint.

All staff of the organization are required to cooperate with the investigator. An employee (including Supervisor) interviewed by the investigator is entitled to be accompanied by one other person of his/her choice, as a support person. The investigator will request the identity of the support person prior to the meeting to ensure that the presence of that particular support person would not present a conflict of interest in regards to the ongoing investigation.

Respondent(s) to any complaint being investigated are entitled to know the allegations against them and have the opportunity to respond in full. A written notice summarizing the complaint will be provided to the Respondent, with the specific allegations.

The Respondent(s) should be given the opportunity to respond to each of the specific allegations raised by the Complainant within seven (7) days or such longer period as approved by the Director Human Resources. If necessary, statements from the Respondent(s) are disclosed back to the Complainant(s).

The investigator will consider all the evidence gathered and decide whether or not there has been a violation of Policy using the standard of proof called the "balance of probabilities".

Once the investigation is complete, the investigator will forward the report of the findings to the Director, Human Resources (or delegate), who will make recommendations, based on the findings, to the Executive Director.

Persons who violate the Harassment and Discrimination Prevention Policy may face a range of consequences, including an apology, education, counselling, verbal or written reprimand, suspension, transfer or termination of employment, depending on the nature and severity of the behaviour. Any disciplinary action will be determined in consultation with Employee/Labour Relations, Human Resources.

The complaint (whether it is determined to be founded or unfounded) may reveal broader issues to be addressed. The investigation may, for example, point to specific barriers in the workplace, a perception of systemic discrimination, or a need for further training on particular human rights issues.

The Complainant(s) and Respondent(s) will be given a written summary of the findings resulting from the investigation, with the Human Resources Director's (or delegate's) decision regarding outcomes and any actions that will be taken as a result. Follow up will be conducted as required by the Director Human Resources or delegate.

Where a Complainant is dissatisfied with the outcome of the complaint, he or she will be advised of the Request for Review process under this Policy and reminded of his or her rights under the Ontario Human Rights Code and the Occupational Health & Safety Act.

Confidentiality

All Information about complaints is confidential. Employees who are involved in any way in complaints or incidents of harassment or discrimination must not disclose to anyone in the workplace the information/details of the complaint or incident, except as required by this procedure and RSJ-H policies on harassment and discrimination.

Advisors, investigators, mediators and persons receiving complaints will, to the extent possible, protect the confidentiality and privacy of persons involved in a complaint, subject to the requirements of a fair investigation and resolution process.

Information about the complaint should only be shared with people who need to know about it. For example, the person the complaint is against will need to know about the particulars of the complaint to respond to it. Witnesses will need some information about the incidents they are said to have been involved in or allegations they have knowledge of.

Investigators, mediators, advisors and any other persons involved with the complaints process should protect confidentiality and privacy, and maintain the security of all documents related to complaints, including contents of meetings, interviews and investigation reports.

Confidentiality extends to all records relating to complaints, including but not limited to, records of meetings, interviews and investigation results. Breaches of confidentiality may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Requests for Review

Either the Complainant(s) and/or the Respondent(s) may make a request for review of the findings of the investigation if he or she has new and relevant information that was not previously available or has substantive reasons why the findings were not reasonable. The intent to file a request for review must be made known to the Scientific Director, VP Research within ten (10) calendar days of the date the parties were notified of the findings. The request for review must include a statement of the reasons why the findings of the investigation were not reasonable and should be re-considered. If the request for review does not include new and relevant information that was not previously available or does not provide substantive reasons why the investigation findings were not reasonable, the Scientific Director, VP Research will deny the request.

Reprisal

Persons who make a complaint, as well as anyone else who is involved, should not face negative consequences for taking part in the complaint process. In other words, they should be free from "reprisal". Protection under the Human Rights Code and the Occupational Health and Safety Act from reprisal covers:

- Complainants;
- Witnesses;

- Advisors;
- Representatives of Complainants and witnesses;
- Investigators; and
- Decision makers/management.

A person who believes that he or she has been subjected to reprisal may file a complaint under the procedure. Persons engaging in reprisal are subject to disciplinary measures, up to and including termination of employment.

5.0 DOCUMENTATION

The Employee/Labour Relations representative will collect and preserve documentation related to the investigation in a secure file, separate from the personnel file, for seven (7) years from the date of the complaint. This includes witness interviews, notes of meetings, evidence gathered, investigation report, documentation on the outcome of the investigation, and any other documents or materials that may have something to do with the complaint, such as letters, notes, offensive pictures, etc.

Harassment: Means a course of vexatious comments or actions that are known, or ought reasonably to be known, to be unwelcome. It can involve words or actions that are known or should be known to be offensive, embarrassing, humiliating, demeaning or unwelcome.

If a person does not explicitly object to harassing behaviour, or appears to be going along with it, this does not mean that the behaviour is okay and the behaviour could still be considered harassment.

A reasonable action taken by an employer or Supervisor relating to the management and direction of workers or the workplace is not workplace harassment. Actions such as performance management, training, directing work assignments and discipline does not constitute personal harassment.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment in the workplace is defined as:

- (a) Engaging in a course of vexatious comment or conduct against a worker in a workplace because of sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, where the course of comment or conduct is known of or ought to be known to be unwelcome and/or
- (b) Making a sexual solicitation or advance where the person making the solicitation or advance is in a position to confer, grant or deny a benefit or advancement to the worker and the person knows or ought reasonably to know that the solicitation or advance is unwelcome.
